MERCURY CAPRI

on or off the track.

Specially prepared and modified 460-horsepower, 175-mph 1981 Mercury Capri, driven by Lyn St. James, one of the most talented women drivers in international racing.

SHEER MAGIC ON THE TRACK

Lincoln-Mercury is back in motorsport competition with a highly modified version of the 5.0 liter V-8 Capri. Its driver is Lyn St. James, one of international racing's premier women drivers.

Last year, after only three years on the professional circuit, St. James drove her special Capri to a close second—only seven-tenths of a second behind the winner—in the International Motorsports Association Kellygirl Challenge. It was the highest finish ever for a woman in an American professional road race.

At Nurburgring, West Germany, Lyn became the first American woman to complete the demanding 24-hour competition at a track many racers rate the most difficult and dangerous in the world. Her three-driver team finished first in its class in the 1,800 mile competition.

Lyn has driven in major IMSA events around the country, including Daytona, Sebring and Road Atlanta, and has set one-lap speed records at Sebring, Palm Beach, Gainesville, Ga., and Daytona.

Discover the special magic in Mercury Capri '82: The European-inspired sports styling. The deep, contoured bucket seats. The precision of rack-and-pinion steering. The flat cornering and flar-out enjoyment from Capri's firm-riding suspension system.

For the performance enthusiast, Capri is available with a 5.0 liter engine teamed with a four-speed over-drive transmission.

The powertrain is designed for exciting performance and includes a high-performance cam shaft, large carburetor and air cleaner that require a hood scoop to house them. Plus a low-restriction, sport-tuned exhaust and cast aluminum rocker-arm covers.

To keep the wheels on the road, the package also includes traction bars, radial sport suspension, and Traction-Lok axle.

Ask your Lincoln-Mercury salesperson to show you all the exciting Capri features. They're sheer magic!
