More than
the name implies.

Since 1965, the name, American Sunroof Company, has been synonymous with sunroofs. But despite what the name implies, we're involved in much more than just open-air driving.

Throughout the past two decades, American Sunroof Company has been evolving and diversifying so that today, in addition to sunroof systems, our capabilities encompass a broader spectrum of automotive products and services, all of which ultimately are designed to help stimulate interest and demand at the consumer level.

Always an innovator.

At American Sunroof Company, we introduced the first electrically operated glass sunroof to the domestic market—a design that has become the standard of the industry.

That same spirit of innovation, along with an extensive range of in-house capabilities, nationwide services, and international resources, is why American Sunroof Company can offer original-equipment manufacturers, automobile dealers, and consumers much more. From design, engineering, manufacturing, testing and quality audit capabilities to distribution, marketing, installation and service.
